Green Materials and Strategies for an Efficient Building System

Message from the Guest Editors

We are very pleased to introduce this Special Issue of Applied Sciences on “Green Materials and Strategies for an Efficient Building System”. This Special Issue intends to welcome contributions on, but not limited to, the following subjects:

- Architectural resilience to climate change;
- Ecomaterials and ecoproducts;
- Building life cycle assessment;
- Building comfort measuring and modeling;
- Energy performance simulations;
- Indoor air quality;
- Urban heat island analysis;
- Environmental engineering;
- System analysis (climate change);
- Free-running buildings appraisal;
- Assessment of sustainability.

For further reading, please visit the Special Issue website.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
