

Special Issue

New Materials and Advanced Procedures of Obtaining and Processing

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue is focused on highlighting the most recent contributions in the field of materials and procedures from a broad range of applications, from medical to civil engineering. The main applications are related to materials involved in environmental engineering, medicine, dentistry, and civil engineering, as well as the procedures for the processing and treatment of various materials. The studied materials can be from nano to macro scale, involving alloys, ceramics, composites, biomaterials, polymers, and more. We welcome the submission of a variety of manuscripts, from theoretical approaches (modeling or simulation) to advanced insights into materials and procedures. For this Special Issue of Applied Sciences, it is my pleasure to invite you to submit reviews and articles in the abovementioned areas.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
