Advanced Dental Materials for Restorative Dentistry

Message from the Guest Editor

The continuous development of dental restorative materials and technologies has advanced the outcome of dental restorative treatments as these materials offer advanced approaches to both diagnostic and therapeutic applications, enhancing function, esthetics, and longevity, improving patient comfort, simplifying operation processes, and reducing patient and manufacturing costs. This Special Issue aims to gather together cutting-edge research on the design, development, and application of advanced dental materials for restorative dentistry. We invite researchers to contribute their original research articles, comprehensive reviews, and short communications addressing recent advances, challenges, and future directions in this field.
