Zebrafish as a Unique Model to Study Cardiovascular Physiology and Disease

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to highlight the current state of the art of the applications of zebrafish models for cardiovascular research. The topics may include (but are not limited to) zebrafish models of cardiovascular disease and regeneration, insights into signaling mechanisms based on zebrafish studies, advances in phenotyping techniques, and drug-discovery efforts. Original articles as well as reviews highlighting the latest advances in the field are welcomed.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

A major strength of biological science is the diversity of approaches that biological scientists apply to their research problems. Biology reflects this diversity and brings together studies employing the varied experimental and theoretical approaches that are fueling biological discovery. Biology, the journal, is a fully peer-reviewed publication with a rapid and economical route to open access publication and is listed on PubMed. All articles are peer-reviewed and the editorial focus is on determining that the work is scientifically sound rather than trying to predict its future impact.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, PubAg, CAPus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (General Agricultural and Biological Sciences)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 17.4 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.5 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
