New Trends in Bioengineering in Osseointegration and Dental Implants

Message from the Guest Editors

Bioengineering is an area of knowledge that can help to optimize osseointegration and dental implants design and behavior.

With this Special Issue on “New Trends in Bioengineering in Osseointegration and Dental implants”, we aim to provide a wide visibility for the most up-to-date and relevant works in the field of bioengineering related to osseointegration and dental implants. Any type of finite element simulation and mechanical trials and reviews aligned within the scope are welcome for this Special Issue.

Potential topics include but are not limited to: (i) numerical studies; (ii) relation between osseointegration and fracture of dental implants and prosthetics components; and (iii) mechanical studies.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

A major strength of biological science is the diversity of approaches that biological scientists apply to their research problems. Biology reflects this diversity and brings together studies employing the varied experimental and theoretical approaches that are fueling biological discovery. Biology, the journal, is a fully peer-reviewed publication with a rapid and economical route to open access publication and is listed on PubMed. All articles are peer-reviewed and the editorial focus is on determining that the work is scientifically sound rather than trying to predict its future impact.

Editors-in-Chief

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, PubAg, CAPus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (General Agricultural and Biological Sciences)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 17.4 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.5 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
