Feature Reviews in Cardiovascular Diseases

Message from the Guest Editors

Despite the progress made in the prevention and treatment of cardiovascular diseases, the number of hospital admissions, healthcare spending, and mortality from cardiovascular causes still rank first in developed and developing countries. However, it must be admitted that cardiovascular diseases are a branch of medicine in which the greatest progress is made every year. In light of these developments, we have proposed this Special Issue entitled "Feature Reviews in Cardiovascular Diseases". It aims to collect the newest and most significant data on cardiovascular research, both in the field of cardiovascular prevention and mechanisms and on therapeutic innovations such as inhibitors of SGLT2 receptors and GLP1 receptor agonists, which have given positive results on adverse cardiovascular outcomes, even regardless of the presence of diabetes.
