Endometrial Cancer: From Pathobiology to Treatment

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to provide an update about the current state of the art in the diagnosis management, treatment and outcomes of endometrial cancer in reproductive age regarding fertility, from basic science to translation approach. Topics of interest for this Special Issue include, but are not limited to, the following: Etiology and pathogenesis of endometrial cancer in fertile women; Biomolecular and genetic prognostic factors of endometrial cancer (EC); Fertility-sparing approach in EC; Oocyte vitrification and fertility preservation; Stem cells as therapy for EC; Fertility preservation approach in women affected by endometriosis.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Biomedicines (ISSN 2227-9059) is an open access journal devoted to all aspects of research on human health and disease, the discovery and characterization of new therapeutic targets, therapeutic strategies, and research of naturally driven biomedicines, pharmaceuticals, and biopharmaceutical products. Topics include pathogenesis mechanisms of diseases, translational medical research, biomaterial in biomedical research, natural bioactive molecules, biologics, vaccines, gene therapies, cell-based therapies, targeted specific antibodies, recombinant therapeutic proteins, nanobiotechnology driven products, targeted therapy, bioimaging, biosensors, biomarkers, and biosimilars. The journal is open for publication of studies conducted at the basic science and preclinical research levels. We invite you to consider submitting your work to Biomedicines, be it original research, review articles, or developing Special Issues of current key topics.
