

Special Issue

Novel Biomarkers of Kidney Diseases

Message from the Guest Editors

With the expanding therapeutic options for treating different chronic kidney diseases, there is an increasing need for the non-invasive diagnosis of glomerular disease and, even more importantly, the assessment of its activity, chronicity (degree of fibrosis), putative outcome, optimal choice and response to treatment. The increase in the understanding of the pathogenesis of chronic kidney disease has resulted in the identification of new potential therapeutic targets. Thus, the aim of this Special Issue is to provide an update on the recent progress in these two areas. We encourage authors to submit papers on the recent advances in biomarkers and the potential therapeutic targets of kidney disease.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Biomolecules is a multidisciplinary open-access journal that reports on all aspects of research related to biogenic substances, from small molecules to complex polymers. We invite manuscripts of high scientific quality that pertain to the diverse aspects relevant to organic molecules, irrespective of the biological question or methodology. We aim for a competent, fair peer review and rapid publication. Please look at some of the exciting work that has been published in Biomolecules so far. We would be delighted to welcome you as one of our authors.
