The Protective and Therapeutic Compositions in Neurological Disorders

Message from the Guest Editor

The design and development of small molecules for the treatment of various neurological disorders are challenging zones in the field of medicinal chemistry. The current Issue focuses on the various class of heterocyclic scaffolds, structure–activity relationships (SARs), and in silico design of enzyme inhibitors, which are used for the management of neurodegenerative disorders, such as Parkinson's disease (PD) and Alzheimer's disease (AD). The Issue also focuses on plant-based inhibitors for the management of PD and AD. Researchers are highly welcome to contribute original articles and in-depth review articles to this Special Issue that may improve our understanding of treatments for neurological disorders.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Brain Sciences (ISSN 2076-3425). Brain Sciences is an open access, peer-reviewed scientific journal that publishes original articles, critical reviews, research notes, and short communications on neuroscience. The scientific community and the general public can access the content free of charge as soon as it is published.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, PSYINDEX, PsycInfo, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 16.2 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 1.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).

Recognition of Reviewers:

reviewers who provide timely, thorough peer-review reports receive vouchers entitling them to a discount on the APC of their next publication in any MDPI journal, in appreciation of the work done.
