Review in Neuropsychology: Advances and Future Directions

Message from the Guest Editors

The field of neuropsychology is undergoing rapid change, driven by advances in cognitive neuroscience, neuroimaging, and clinical research. This Special Issue, entitled "Review in Neuropsychology: Advances and Future Directions", aims to present current research findings that improve our understanding of neurocognitive processes and disorders. The issue provides a comprehensive overview of current trends and future developments in neuropsychology and bridges the gap between theoretical advances and practical applications in clinical settings. We invite reviews, systematic reviews, meta-analyses, and perspectives that contribute to theoretical and practical advances in the field. This Special Issue welcomes submissions that address, but are not limited to, the following topics:

- Neuropsychological aspects of neurological diseases
- Metacognitive and executive functions
- Neurodevelopmental disorders
- Ageing and cognition
- Neuroimaging in clinical diagnostics
- Innovative therapeutic approaches
- Predictive modelling
- Intercultural neuropsychology
