Sleep Disorders in Intellectual Disability—From Bench to Bedside

Message from the Guest Editors

We are interested in all areas of sleep and sleep disorders in the context of learning disability, from animal model work and cellular studies to epidemiological surveys and interventional studies through to reviews or meta-analyses in the area, both paediatric and adult. All areas of learning disability and any underlying disorders are acceptable. We welcome your contributions in the form of original papers, commentaries or detailed reviews. If you are unsure as to whether your proposed contribution is suitable, please do not hesitate to contact the editors for advice or discussion.
