

Special Issue

Prognosis and Treatment of Cutaneous Melanoma (2nd Edition)

Message from the Guest Editor

In this Special Issue, the most relevant and updated information about characteristics that determine the prognosis of cutaneous melanomas will be addressed. This will include an in-depth analysis of factors related to patients (genetic predispositions), as well as the pathological and molecular characteristics of tumors. A review of the current available evidence on adjuvant and neoadjuvant treatments and the treatment of advanced melanoma are also included in this Special Issue.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Cancers is an international online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal is publishing in Open Access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.
