Special Issue

Pathology of Gynecological Cancers (2nd Edition)

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to publish high-quality, up-todate information about gynecologic cancers and precursor lesions with an emphasis on molecular and immunohistochemical profiling, especially for uncommon and rare entities. The titles will cover the following: (1) vulvar lesions, which include, but are not limited to, soft tissue neoplasia, adenoid cystic and adenoid basal carcinomas; (2) cervical lesions, including neuroendocrine tumors, gastric-type adenocarcinoma, and clear cell carcinoma; (3) endometrial lesions, including mesenchymal tumors, serous endometrial intraepithelial carcinoma, and carcinosarcoma; (4) adnexal lesions, including Wolffian-origin female adnexal tumors, serous intraepithelial carcinoma, other precursor lesions, mucinous and seromucinous carcinomas, germ cell tumors, and sex cord stromal tumors; and (5) gestational tumors, including molar pregnancy, placental site trophoblastic tumors, epithelioid trophoblastic tumors, and choriocarcinoma.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Cancers is an international online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal is publishing in Open Access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.
