

Special Issue

Health Services Research in Cancer Care

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue attempts to highlight this relevant endpoint with the aim of increasing the knowledge on the use, costs, accessibility, quality, organization, financing, and outcomes of health services in cancer care. Researchers and research groups engaged in healthcare or health services in the field of oncology and the cancer care sphere are encouraged to contribute. The articles included in this Special Issue will contribute to identifying both best practices as well as areas needing improvement within cancer healthcare. By addressing gaps and challenges, these contributions will support the goal of ensuring that all individuals receive optimal and suitable cancer care to enhance their health outcomes.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Cancers is an international online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal is publishing in Open Access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.
