Advancing Hepatocellular Imaging: Innovations in Diagnosis, Prognosis, and Treatment Response Assessment

Message from the Guest Editors

Advancements in medical imaging have revolutionized the field of hepatocellular imaging, contributing significantly to the diagnosis, prognosis, and treatment evaluation of hepatocellular carcinoma (HCC). This Special Issue will explore the latest emerging and evolving concepts in hepatocellular imaging, highlighting their implications for clinical practice. From innovative diagnostic techniques to novel methods for assessing the treatment response, this Special Issue will cover a broad spectrum of topics that encompass the multidimensional landscape of HCC management.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Cancers (ISSN 2072-6694) is an international, online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal will continue its open access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.
