World Lung Cancer Awareness Month: 2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editor

November is dedicated to "World Lung Cancer Awareness Month", with various global activities that highlight and increase awareness of lung cancer for research support and development. We would like to take this opportunity to appreciate all the researchers who have contributed to the fight against this disease. In particular, we would like to highlight several research papers in this field, which cover mechanisms in the tumor microenvironment, early detection, promising therapeutic targets, and new therapeutic strategies. We hope that this Special Issue will provide useful information for clinical practice.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Cancers is an international online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal is publishing in Open Access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.
