New Insight on Cholangiocarcinoma and Pathogenetic Basis of Tumour Heterogeneity

Message from the Guest Editors

The scope of this Special Issue is to provide recent advances in the field of cholangiocarcinoma, including morphologic classification, the definition of molecular profiles, the molecular interactions at the basis of biliary carcinogenesis, and the characterization of cell of origin, cancer stem cells, and tumour microenvironment. We welcome both review articles and original manuscripts that embrace novelty in tumour cell biology and differentiation. Keywords

- liver
- cholangiocyte
- tumour
- biliary tree
- stroma
- cancer-associated fibroblast
- cancer stem cell
- cell of origin

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Cells has become a solid international scientific journal that is now indexed on SCIE and in other databases. We have successfully introduced a special issues format so that these issues serve as mini-forums in specific areas of cell science. Cells encourages researchers to suggest new special issues, serve as special issues editors, and volunteer to be reviewers. Our main focus will remain on cell anatomy and physiology, the structure and function of organelles, cell adhesion and motility, and the regulation of intracellular signaling, growth, differentiation, and aging. We are open to both original research papers and reviews.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Cell Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (General Biochemistry, Genetics and Molecular Biology)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 15.5 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.8 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2025).
