About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Planetary health provides an overarching vision of the interdependence of all life on Earth, offering a cohesive framework that connects scientific, social, and cultural understanding to guide our responses to the complex challenges of our time. Challenges—Journal of Planetary Health is dedicated to exploring these interconnections through transdisciplinary efforts spanning technological innovation, education, policy, and governance, as well as the human attitudes, values, and spirituality that shape social and ecological well-being and justice. We welcome a wide range of contributions from diverse fields, from the biological, physical, and technical sciences to the social sciences, arts, and humanities, that illuminate pathways toward the mutual flourishing of people, places, and the planet.
