

Special Issue

Editorial Board Members' Collection Series: "Biosensors for chronic conditions Diagnosis and Treatment"

Message from the Guest Editors

Chronic conditions are a major concern worldwide. The dramatic increase in chronic conditions (e.g., diabetes, cancer, cardiovascular diseases, respiratory diseases, mental illness) across the globe has demanded immediate and creative actions to provide solutions for a plethora of unmet needs. Affordable rapid biosensors could greatly reduce the global disease burden, especially in chronic disease diagnosis as well as early cancer screening. This Special Issue will cover the recent advances in biosensors and their applications in monitoring chronic conditions in point-of-need settings. This Special Issue welcomes high-quality publications, including reviews, perspectives, communications, and research articles, related to recent advances in biosensors for the diagnosis and treatment of chronic conditions.
