

Special Issue

Feature Papers on Luminescent Sensing

Message from the Guest Editors

Luminescent sensors act as critical detection tools in a broad range of areas in biology, medicine, environmental care, etc. This Special Issue will provide a forum for the latest research activities in the field of luminescent sensors such as bioluminescent sensors, chemiluminescent sensors, electrochemiluminescent sensors, sonoluminescent sensors, triboluminescent sensors, and fluorescent and phosphorescent sensors. Both review articles and original research papers are encouraged in, though not limited to, the following areas:

- The new concepts of developing luminescent sensors;
- The design of new luminescent materials for sensing applications;
- The use of new materials for the development of luminescent sensors;
- The emerging applications of luminescent sensors;
- State-of-the-art technologies to improve the performance of luminescent sensors;
- The fabrication of custom-made luminescent sensors;
- The development of luminescence-based instruments for sensing applications;

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Chemosensors continues to grow as a forum for all manners of sensing that encompass chemistry. Chemosensors is published in open access format – all articles and content are released on the internet immediately following acceptance, thus allowing unlimited access to the content as soon as it is published. We would be happy to have you join our growing list of authors.

Editors-in-Chief

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPus / SciFinder, Inspec, Engineering Village and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Instruments and Instrumentation) / CiteScore - Q1 (Physical and Theoretical Chemistry)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 19.1 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.6 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2025).
