

Special Issue

Fluorescent Probe and Biosensing

Message from the Guest Editors

Fluorescent probes have received great interest for their special virtues in recent years. This Special Issue is mainly aimed at small-molecule fluorescent probes, which are applied to the biosensing of reactive species and metals, such as reactive sulfur species, reactive nitrogen species, and reactive oxygen species. Both review articles and original research papers are encouraged in, though not limited to, the following areas:

- fluorescent probes/sensing
- fluorescent probes for bioimaging
- fluorescent probes for biolabeling
- small molecule-based probes in biosensing
- fluorescent materials for sensing
- polymer-based probes in biosensing
- supramolecular probes in biosensing
- nanomaterials-based probes in biosensing
- fluorescent sensing principles and mechanisms

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Chemosensors continues to grow as a forum for all manners of sensing that encompass chemistry. Chemosensors is published in open access format – all articles and content are released on the internet immediately following acceptance, thus allowing unlimited access to the content as soon as it is published. We would be happy to have you join our growing list of authors.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPus / SciFinder, Inspec, Engineering Village and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Instruments and Instrumentation) / CiteScore - Q1 (Physical and Theoretical Chemistry)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 20.5 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.8 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
