“Nothing About Me Without Me” – Addressing, and Overcoming Current and Future Challenges in Paediatric Health Research by Involving All Actors

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, “Nothing about Me without Me” – Addressing, and Overcoming Current and Future Challenges in Paediatric Health Research by Involving All Actors”, will address challenges in relation to (adverse) health outcomes in infancy and childhood with a specific focus on PPI. We particularly welcome manuscripts that have applied a holistic PPI approach or that have studied (aspects of) PPI in health (research). Various types of articles, such as original research articles, methodology papers, study protocols, review articles, commentaries and innovative concept papers will be considered for publication.

Potential topics in relation to child health include but are not limited to:

- Patient and public involvement;
- Participatory research;
- Patient-centred care;
- Infant and family centred developmental care;
- Public health policy;
- Evidence into practice;
- Health impact assessment.
