Advances in Clinical Nursing: Integrating Advanced Surgical and Medical Nursing for Enhanced Patient Outcomes

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue focuses on contemporary advancements in clinical nursing, highlighting the integration of advanced surgical and medical nursing practices aimed at improving patient outcomes. It emphasizes evidence-based nursing interventions, management of complex conditions, and the role of advanced nursing competencies in both surgical and medical specialties. Pathophysiological concepts, comprehensive clinical assessments, interdisciplinary collaboration, and innovative approaches for enhancing patient safety, symptom management, and recovery will be thoroughly explored.
