

computers

Mr. Emilio Cruciani

Dear Colleagues,

As Editor-in-Chief of Computers, I am pleased to announce the winner of the 2019 Computers Travel Award on behalf of the Travel Award Evaluation Committee.

The winner is Emilio Cruciani, Ph.D. student in Computer Science at the Gran Sasso Science Institute, whose primary research activity is on the analysis of dynamical processes of networks and on the design of scalable algorithms for large datasets. He is planning to orally present his work “Scalable Approaches for Test Suite Reduction” at the prestigious 41st International Conference on Software Engineering (25-31 May 2019, Montréal, QC, Canada). The award consists of 800 Swiss Francs to attend this conference.

2019 COMPUTERS TRAVEL AWARD

WINNER

The Travel Award winner selection was a difficult process as we received many high-quality applications for the award and we thank all applicants for their valuable submissions. Let me take the opportunity to thank also the Travel Award Evaluation Committee, which worked promptly and rigorously to determine the winner. We wish to congratulate Mr. Emilio Cruciani for his accomplishments.

Prof. Dr. Paolo Bellavista

Editor-in-Chief

Computers (ISSN 2073-431X) is an international scientific peer-reviewed open access journal of computer science, including computer and network architecture and computer-human interaction as its main foci, published quarterly online by MDPI with a median publication time of 40 days from submission to publication in 2018. It is now Indexed in the Scopus, Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI - Web of Science), Inspec (IET), and DBLP.

Academic Open Access Publishing
since 1996

Computers Editorial Office
St. Alban-Anlage 66
CH-4052, Basel, Switzerland

computers@mdpi.com
www.mdpi.com/journal/computers