Treatment for Anti-aging and Rejuvenation

Message from the Guest Editor

The role of healthcare is now shifting beyond disease treatment to focus on disease prevention, and it is even advancing into technologies that can reverse the aging process. Consequently, anti-aging and skin rejuvenation have become emphasized areas within the fields of dermatology, plastic surgery, and cosmetics. In this Special Issue, titled "Treatment for Anti-aging and Rejuvenation", we warmly invite your submissions of research and review papers encompassing topics such as cosmeceuticals, energy-based devices, laser modalities, surgical interventions, and more. Furthermore, we look forward to the sharing of up-to-date knowledge in the fields of cosmetology, dermatology, aesthetic dermatology, and plastic surgery.
