Diagnosis and Management of Dental Medicine and Surgery

Message from the Guest Editor

We are preparing a Special Issue, concerning the “Diagnosis and treatment of Dental Medicine and Surgery” for Diagnosis (Q-2 in JCR). It would be our honor if you decide to collaborate by sending us a scientific paper from your investigation group regarding this topic. This Special Issue will include a great variety of scientific papers related to diagnoses and treatments in dental medicine and surgery, as well as various levels of investigation such as basic sciences and clinical studies. Furthermore, studies evaluating diagnostic procedures (including clinical diagnosis, laboratory, or by image) will be included in this Special Issue. In this Special Issue, we can include current ways of diagnosis, but also future methods, such as artificial intelligence. In addition, in attending to different age groups, we know there is a great variety of pharmacological and surgical treatments, which we consider important enough to be known by scientific community.
