Advances in Diagnosis and Treatment of Cardiac Arrhythmias

Message from the Guest Editors

The diagnosis and treatment of cardiac arrhythmias are constantly evolving in daily clinical practice. Patients with cardiac arrhythmias such as atrial fibrillation or ventricular tachycardia often require advanced multidisciplinary assessments and treatments with the collaboration of cardiac surgeons for hybrid ablations or hemodynamic support. The use of the latest technologies in the field of cardiac electrophysiology and cardiac devices has allowed for safer treatments with better results in the follow-up of patients affected by different heart diseases. This Special Issue “Advances in Diagnosis and Treatment of Cardiac Arrhythmias” will cover a selection of recent research topics and updated manuscripts on the innovations in the field of interventional and pharmacological treatment of cardiac arrhythmias.
