

Special Issue

Diagnosis and Management of Musculoskeletal Disorders

Message from the Guest Editors

The diagnostic accuracy of musculoskeletal disorders is improving with the development of new imaging equipment, image processing methods, image analysis techniques, and physiological and biochemical analysis technologies. Recently, various new technologies have been introduced, including high-resolution imaging, AI diagnosis, functional imaging, fusion imaging, molecular biological analysis, and physiological analysis. The purpose of this Special Issue is to discuss the diagnosis and treatment of various musculoskeletal diseases using the latest imaging techniques, physiological and biochemical analysis methods. This Special Issue invites papers on the latest technologies related to the advances in the diagnosis of musculoskeletal diseases, including computer-assisted assessment, artificial intelligence, functional imaging, physiological analysis, biological assessment and multimodalities. We are looking for not only original papers but also review papers on the latest technologies.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, Inspec, CAPIus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Medicine, General and Internal) / CiteScore - Q2 (Internal Medicine)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 21 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.6 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
