Radiomics and Artificial Intelligence Applications in the Diagnosis of Brain Lesions

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue, titled “Radiomics and Artificial Intelligence Applications in the Diagnosis of Brain Lesions”, delves into the revolutionary advancements in leveraging radiomics and artificial intelligence (AI) for diagnosing brain lesions. It brings together cutting-edge research, case studies, and expert perspectives that showcase how these technologies are transforming the diagnostic landscape. By exploring the interplay between quantitative imaging features and AI algorithms, this Special Issue highlights the enhanced accuracy, efficiency, and personalized approaches in detecting and characterizing brain abnormalities. It serves as a pivotal resource for radiologists, neurologists, AI researchers, and clinicians seeking to harness the full potential of these innovative methodologies.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are cordially invited to submit research articles, short communications, comprehensive reviews, case reports or interesting images for consideration and publication in Diagnostics (ISSN 2075-4418). Diagnostics is published in open access format – research articles, reviews and other contents are released on the Internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited and free access to the content as soon as it is published. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, Inspec, CAPIus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Medicine, General and Internal) / CiteScore - Q2 (Internal Medicine)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 21 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.6 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
