Biomarkers of Gynecological Cancers

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue, "Biomarkers of Gynecological Cancers", aims to provide a comprehensive overview of the current state of knowledge regarding biomarkers for ovarian, uterine, and cervical cancers. It seeks to highlight recent advancements in the discovery, validation, and clinical application of biomarkers in these gynecological malignancies. The scope of this Special Issue encompasses studies on novel biomarkers, their diagnostic as well as prognostic potential, and their role in guiding personalized treatment strategies. It aims to bring together researchers from diverse fields, including oncology, gynecology, molecular biology, and clinical trials, to discuss the latest findings and challenges in the field of gynecological cancer biomarkers. Through this platform, this Special Issue aims to foster collaboration and advance the development of more effective biomarkers for the early detection, prognosis, and management of gynecological cancers.
