Urologic Oncology: Biomarkers, Diagnosis, and Management

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to comprehensively explore cutting-edge research in the field, with a particular focus on biomarkers, diagnostic advancements, and innovative management strategies. We invite contributions that delve into the latest developments that shape our understanding of urologic oncology, fostering a collaborative exchange of insights to advance patient care. As we navigate the intricate landscape of urologic malignancies, this Special Issue endeavors to spotlight emerging trends and breakthroughs, catalyzing impactful discussions within our scientific community.
