Research Progress in NephroOncology

Message from the Guest Editors

Kidney disorders associated with either cancer or anti-cancer therapies represent a growing challenge in human pathology. While understanding the underlying mechanisms becomes essential, it represents a real challenge. Hence NephroOncology has emerged as a new field covering the need for mechanistic knowledge of the molecular mechanisms at the cellular and tissular levels. The current special issue intends to contribute to the development of this domain and provide leverage for further research. Potential readers in medicine, biology and connected disciplines should have access to the state of the art information and to the most recent advances in associated diagnostics, pathogenesis, and therapeutic strategies at the crossroads of cancer and nephrology.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are cordially invited to submit research articles, short communications, comprehensive reviews, case reports or interesting images for consideration and publication in Diagnostics (ISSN 2075-4418). Diagnostics is published in open access format – research articles, reviews and other contents are released on the Internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited and free access to the content as soon as it is published. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
