Diagnosis of Rheumatoid Arthritis

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue “Diagnosis of Rheumatoid Arthritis” will focus on the identification of the wide spectrum of clinical and molecular mechanisms involved in the establishment and evolution of the disease and its associated comorbidities, as well as their implication in the development of precision medicine to manage these patients. We invite authors to contribute to this Special Issue with original research and review articles, focusing on, but not limited to, laboratory and imaging tools for the diagnosis and therapeutic response of RA; genetic, transcriptomic and epigenetic biomarkers with diagnostic value; the diagnostic value of autoantibodies and immune cells; factors related to CVD and interstitial lung disease development; influence of microbiome, diet quality and obesity on the risk of RA; RA disease determinants in older individuals; bioinformatic approaches as novel tools for diagnosis.
