Updates in Cardiothoracic Imaging

Message from the Guest Editor

Over the past decade, we have witnessed rapid development of a variety of novel technologies in the field of cardiothoracic imaging. Emerging artificial intelligence technologies are also showing promising results in this field, and some have already been added to our daily clinical practice. Screening and follow-up guidelines for the ideal management of patients with cardiac and lung diseases have undergone several revisions. All these necessitate updating our knowledge to better serve patients. We are pleased to invite you to contribute to this Special Issue to cover these updates. This Special Issue seeks submissions to expand the understanding and highlight the clinical importance of the emerging or changing technologies, guidelines, and expert recommendations in the field of cardiothoracic imaging. I look forward to receiving your contributions.
