Pediatric Diseases

Message from the Guest Editor

There is a growing interest in the re-emergence of diseases that impact pediatric demographics. While major strides have been made in the field of childhood cancers, there are still more questions than answers. In addition, the resistance to childhood vaccinations fueled by misinformation has allowed infectious diseases to resurface in developed nations. Meanwhile, climate change and other destabilizing factors are shifting vector populations and driving the emergence of new disease. In this special issue of Diseases, we invite papers related to detection, prevention, diagnosis and treatment of human pediatric diseases. Papers related to molecular mechanisms, epidemiology, immunology, and public health initiatives associated with pediatric diseases are also encouraged.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Diseases is an international, peer-reviewed, open access, multidisciplinary journal that focuses on the latest outstanding research concerning diseases and conditions. Research articles, reviews, and other contents are released on the Internet immediately after acceptance. This journal aims to cover international conferences and symposia as new targets.

Diseases is increasingly gaining acceptance and visibility within scholars, and after only a few years of life, Diseases is now also covering specific topics with dedicated special issues. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
