Conservation across Space and Time—Using the Past to Conserve for the Present and Future

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue provides a platform to advance our understanding of (i) the application of paleoecological information in present-day conservation, as well as (ii) the use of long-term observation data in present-day conservation. We welcome contributions across all types of paleo-records, as well as long-term observation data from all kinds of ecosystems across tropical, subtropical, and temperate regions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Diversity (ISSN 1424-2818) is a scholarly journal that covers all areas of diversity research. Our distinguished editorial board and refereeing process ensures the highest degree of scientific rigor for publishing. Original research articles and timely reviews are released online, with unlimited free access.

We invite papers and reviews on multidisciplinary topics of diversity that bridge organismic diversity (systematics, biodiversity, phylogeny, population genetics, and evolution) and molecular diversity (phytochemistry and biophysics).
