Energy Consumption, Financial Development and Economic Growth

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to invite you to contribute to this Special Issue on “Energy Consumption, Financial Development and Economic Growth”, a timely and popular theme in current research. Its focus is on how financial development can facilitate renewable energy consumption and clean energy adoption, ultimately fostering sustainable economic growth. The scope encompasses the energy–growth nexus and green transition, with attention to environmental degradation and the environmental Kuznets curve, highlighting how market-based solutions can drive resilient development. The purpose is to offer fresh insights into how financing mechanisms mobilize resources for renewable energy, bridging theoretical perspectives with evidence-based policy implications. By engaging with the existing literature, we aim to deepen our collective knowledge and advance sustainable growth strategies. We look forward to your contributions.
