Navigating Global Economic Shifts: Empirical Evidence in International Macroeconomics

Message from the Guest Editors

This Issue welcomes theoretical, empirical, review, and policy-relevant contributions that explore macroeconomic phenomena through novel frameworks, rigorous data analysis, or critical re-evaluation of established paradigms. We are particularly interested in research that addresses (but is not limited to) the following themes:

- Global financial cycles and capital flow dynamics;
- Exchange rates, inflation targeting, and monetary policy spillovers;
- Sovereign debt, fiscal sustainability, and cross-country contagion;
- International trade, supply chain disruptions, and macroeconomic resilience;
- The macroeconomic implications of geopolitical shifts and climate policy;
- Technological change and digital currencies in global financial systems;
- Financial systems, regulation and governance;
- Heterodox approaches to international macroeconomics;
- Debt sustainability and optimal debt levels ;
- Macro-financial linkages;
- Financial and banking crises;
- Sovereign credit ratings;
- Trade wars & geopolitical risks;
- International Financial Institutions and Development.
