Interprofessional Medical Education and Practice: Global Perspectives in Overcoming the Challenges of Disrupted Future

Message from the Guest Editor

Interprofessional Education and Practice. We acknowledge that we practice medicine in a world that did not anticipate the medical and social disruption of COVID-19 and is hoping that climate change will be gentle and that our social and learning environment will remain predictable. This Special Issue of Interprofessional Education and Practice invites leaders in interprofessional health professions to share their stories. How are they helping select and prepare students to become our colleagues in a shared future? To facilitate the coherence of this issue, we have asked the lead authors of each article to address a common set of questions:

- How do they define "interprofessional"?
- What is the evidence that their program's mission is congruent with what their...

We hope that you experience the collection as promoting diversity, inclusivity, and sustainability.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

From its first issue in 2011, Education Sciences (ISSN 2227-7102) has grown as a scholarly international open access journal. Its aim remains to publish extended full-length research papers that have the scope to substantively address current issues in education. As a member of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE), our goal has been to disseminate high quality research. Our publisher, MDPI, takes the responsibility to enforce a rigorous double-blind peer-review together with strict ethical policies and standards to ensure to add high quality scientific works to the field of scholarly publication.
