Advances in THz Technology

Message from the Guest Editors

A great effort is invested in THz technology in order to develop novel methods for THz emission, low or high power, and with or without tunability properties. We here call for papers in this Special Issue to discuss new tech methods and schemes intending to lead to new sources and emission methods, which will advance the scientific and industrial communities and provide new research possibilities. We are interested in new applications, science, and techniques. Authors are kindly invited to submit original research on both theoretical and experimental methods.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guest-edited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPlus /
SciFinder, Inspec, Ei Compendex and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Engineering, Electrical and Electronic) /
CiteScore - Q1 (Electrical and Electronic Engineering)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 16.8 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.4 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
