Emerging Communication Technologies for Cooperative Intelligent Transportation Systems

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of Electronics focuses on advancing Cooperative Intelligent Transportation Systems (C-ITS) as part of smart city initiatives. As cities increasingly adopt digital twins—virtual representations of urban environments—this Special Issue addresses the challenges of real-time monitoring, localization, and synchronization across heterogeneous sensor systems to support urban mobility. Contributions to this Special Issue may include the following:

- Innovative Communication Protocols and Standards
- Advanced Sensor Design and Data Integration
- Localization and Mapping Algorithms
- Machine Learning Models for Traffic Prediction
- Interoperability and Data Exchange Frameworks
- Digital City Twins for Traffic Simulation and Optimization
- Urban-Optimized Communication Technologies
- Data Processing and Real-Time Analytics
- Advanced Connectivity Solutions
