

Special Issue

AI, IoT, and NN Use in HealthCare

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue is to present the current activity in this research field and its results, linking the promotion of health and well-being resulting from healthcare, physical activity and involvement in sport with AI tools such as IoT and NN. Topics of interest include:

- The use of AI, IoT and NN devices and systems in healthcare, physical activity and sports;
- The accuracy and volume of data recording;
- Privacy and security in the collection, use and communication of biomedical data;
- Usability and users' experience of devices;
- Applications and systems for personal or public use in PA and healthcare;
- Monitoring, diagnostics and prevention applications and systems;
- Privacy, security and law of biomedical data.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guest-edited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.
