Special Issue

Advanced Technologies for Social Computing and Natural Language Processing

Message from the Guest Editors

During recent decades, social media has revolutionized interpersonal communication and has consequently produced unprecedented amounts of user data, such as attitudes, opinions, interests, purchases, and activities, across numerous areas. Natural language processing (NLP) and social computing are promising and evolving fields for social media data analytics. In this Special Issue, both original research papers and reviews are welcome. Research may focus on (but is not limited to) the following topics:

- Privacy and trust in social computing and NLP;
- NLP and social computing for cyber threat intelligence;
- Social computing and NLP in disaster management;
- Sentiment and opinion analysis on social media;
- Large language models and their applications in NLP and social computing;
- Multimodal NLP on social media;
- Text mining and information retrieval on social media;
- NLP and social computing for social eCommerce;
- Low-resource NLP for social computing\models of complex networks

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guest-edited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.
