

Special Issue

Advances in HCI Research

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue focuses on advances in human–computer interaction research for intercultural communication in the fields of tourism, education, culture, e-commerce, and communication in general. This interdisciplinary approach aims to explore the dynamic relationships between these fields and their impact on users and new media. Researchers are invited to submit papers that delve into topics such as the role of technology in enhancing tourism experiences, the influence of cultural exchange on educational practices, the integration of e-commerce in cultural preservation efforts, and the use of communication strategies to promote user experience/interaction. By examining these interconnected themes, this Special Issue seeks to advance knowledge in these areas. Submissions that offer innovative perspectives and practical insights are encouraged to contribute. This Special Issue will accept topics regarding advances in human–computer interaction research for intercultural communication detection and understanding related works.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guest-edited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.
