

Special Issue

Location-Based Technologies and Applications

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will provide an updated overview of location technologies and location-based services, from the analysis, design, and development of solutions to obtain the location of users, to the description and validation of final systems that use these locations to provide advanced services. Topics of interest include, but are not limited to, the following: - Indoor/outdoor location systems. - Location in 5G networks. - Personalization and context-awareness in location-based applications. - Security, usability, and privacy in location-based systems. - Human mobility modeling and prediction. - Use of information from geolocated social networks. Welcome to contribute.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guest-edited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.
