AI Synergy: Vision, Language, and Modality

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, titled "AI Synergy: Vision, Language, and Modality", aims to explore the evolving intersections of computer vision, large language models, and multimodal data processing. This Special Issue invites pioneering research that demonstrates novel integrations and applications across these dynamic fields. As artificial intelligence continues to break barriers between data modalities, the synergy among visual, textual, and other data forms has unlocked remarkable advancements and practical applications. We encourage submissions that push the boundaries of how these technologies can work in tandem to enhance understanding, generate new insights, and solve complex problems.
