Recent Advances in Cybersecurity and Information Security

Message from the Guest Editor

New technologies and methodologies oriented towards security and privacy are continuously being proposed, leading to substantial progress in the fields of cybersecurity and information security to safeguard critical computing infrastructures and data privacy in the information age. This Special Issue covers the theory, applications, and implementations of cybersecurity and information security, aims to showcase the latest research, developments, and advances in cybersecurity and information security. Potential topics include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Cybersecurity data analytic;
- Cryptography and its applications;
- Operating system, database, and computing infrastructure security;
- Software and system security;
- Privacy and data protection;
- Secure multi-party computation;
- Privacy-preserving machine learning;
- Post-quantum cryptography.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guest-edited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.
