

Special Issue

Security in Embedded Systems and IoT: Challenges and New Directions

Message from the Guest Editors

With this Special Issue, we would like to focus on new applications of traditional information security techniques, as well as new developments or ideas that help in the use of electronic systems for connectivity and information exchange. The scope of this Special Issue includes but is not limited to:

- IoT security;
- Blockchain and the Internet of Things (IoT);
- Secure Firmware Development;
- Key management centralized and distributed systems;
- Security protocols in embedded communication systems;
- Industrial embedded systems security threats and challenges;
- Embedded systems;
- Real time operating systems vulnerabilities, attacks, and security;
- Trusted computing;
- Sensors data sanity.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guest-edited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.
