Entertainment and Game Computing

Message from the Guest Editor

Rapid advances in entertainment and game computing over the past decade have revolutionized our daily lives, making our them more fun. The scope of the research field ‘entertainment and game computing’ is quite broad, and includes many types of computer games, software for digital entertainment, architectures and methodologies for entertainment applications, computer game and software technologies for entertainment, interactive entertainment, and technologies and applications in the emerging areas of augmented reality, mixed reality, and virtual reality. The topics of interest include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Immersive game technology
- Augmented reality games
- Vision-based interface for gaming and entertainment systems
- 360° spherical video/image analysis
- Structure reconstruction from spherical video/image
- Mixed and augmented reality systems for entertainment
- Entertainment applications with spherical/omnidirectional camera
- Affective computing in games
