

Special Issue

Flexible Electronics

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue covers both organic and inorganic materials and devices for flexible electronics. Papers in the areas of materials synthesis, characterization, and modeling, along with device fabrication and testing, are requested. Areas of interest include organic and inorganic semiconductors (n-type or p-type), memory devices, sensors, and functional devices. Papers demonstrating novel applications, including display, large-area sensors, functional devices, RFID tags, smart medical sensors, fabric, and paper-based devices will be considered. Novel, large area processing methods, such as ink-jet processing, spray pyrolysis, solution deposition, and roll-to-roll processing, are also of interest.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Electronics is a multidisciplinary journal designed to appeal to a diverse audience of research scientists, practitioners, and developers in academia and industry. The journal is devoted to fast publication of latest technological breakthroughs, cutting-edge developments, and timely reviews of current and emerging technologies related to the broad field of electronics. Experimental and theoretical results are published as regular peer-reviewed articles or as articles within Special Issues guestedited by leading experts in selected topics of interest.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPus /
SciFinder, Inspec, Ei Compendex and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Engineering, Electrical and Electronic) / CiteScore - Q1 (Electrical and Electronic Engineering)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 16.8 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.4 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
